Between San Francisco and Santa Clara, San Mateo County has a lot to offer!

BY LEE HAMMER

ADVENTURE

Hiller features numerous airplanes, helicopters and fun, interactive flight simulators.

San Francisco is one of the most famous tourist spots in the world. Santa Clara county is home to Silicon Valley. But to get from one county to the other, you need to pass through the county where I live, San Mateo County.

There's lots to do. Here's just a quick sample of some places you need to check out.

Hiller Aviation

The Hiller Aviation Museum was founded by helicopter pioneer Stanley Hiller Jr. and opened to the public in June 1998 and has continued to thrive ever since. Hiller features numerous airplanes, helicopters and fun, interactive flight simulators. The museum also hosts numerous events and it is one of the best kid-friendly museums in the area.

Pelican Point Beach

Pelican Point Beach is located near the end of Miramontes Point Road in Half Moon Bay. The beach is walkable north below the resort for quite a ways, except at high tide. At the other side of the resort property is the Redondo Beach Access. At low tide you can find tide pools to explore in either direction from the Pelican Point Beach public access. The larger and better-known Half Moon Bay Tide Pools are to the north below the resort. Paved paths follow the bluff to the lodge where you can eat at one of the restaurants or just take in the view from there.

Devil's Slide Trail

This is a 1.3-mile multi-use trail, converted from a former segment of Highway 1, that gives hikers, runners, bicyclists and equestrians access the rocky heights of Devil's Slide above the Pacific Ocean.

The trail is paved, with separate lanes for hikers and directional bike traffic. At provided overlooks, trail users may rest on benches and gaze through observation scopes and take in the view of the rocky coastal waters below.

Filoli Mansion & Gardens

Designed between 1915 – 1917 and set against the dramatic backdrop of the northern Santa Cruz Mountains in Woodside. Filoli is an excellent example of the Golden Age of American garden design and country house architecture. Filoli is recognized as one of the finest remaining country estates of the early 20th century and is a cherished resource for the community valuing education, volunteerism and diversity.

Pigeon Point Lighthouse

The 115-foot Pigeon Point Lighthouse, one of the tallest lighthouses in America, has been guiding mariners since 1872. The lens stands 16 feet tall, 6 feet in diameter, and weighs 2,000 pounds. Although the original Fresnel lens is no longer in use, the lighthouse is still an active U.S. Coast Guard aid to navigation using a Vega Marine Rotating Beacon. Furthermore, the coastal areas surrounding Pigeon Point Light Station are rich with life. Marine mammals, such as seals and whales, can be seen regularly from shore as they pass by beyond the surf.

Portola Discovery Site

Located in the town of Pacifica, this is the site of the discovery of San Francisco Bay by Captain Gaspar de Portola and his party of sixty men. Hikers can hike to the top of the site and take in the breath-taking sight to see the tremendous expanse of the Bay Area. Next year, the site will be celebrating the 250th anniversary of the discovery of San Francisco Bay.

Ano Nuevo State Park

The park's Natural Preserve offers an extraordinary wilderness experience, where every year up to 10,000 elephant seals return to breed, give birth, and molt their skin amongst the scenic dunes and beaches. Making the park one of the largest mainland breeding colony for the northern elephant seal. In addition to the elephant seals, the park is also home to Brandt's and Pelagic Cormorants as well as California Sea Lions, Otters and harbor seals.

Fitzgerald Marine Reserve

This rocky seashore hosts a living community of marine life that is of great interest to visitors and naturalists alike. A variety of seaweed, crabs, sponges, sea stars, mollusks, and fish make their homes here. Activities in the Reserve focus on education and interpretation of natural resources, including the ecosystems of the intertidal reef, beach, upland, and wetlands. In order to protect the sensitive natural resources of Fitzgerald Marine Reserve, groups of 10 or more are required to make reservations before visiting.

Downtown Redwood City

Enjoy a wide variety of street shopping, from eclectic clothing boutiques and jewelry shops to family-owned grocery stores, hobby shops, and global furniture stores. In addition, downtown Redwood City is the perfect place for theatre enthusiasts with the Fox Theatre, Broadway by the Bay and Dragon Theatre Productions all located there.

Half Moon Bay Pumpkin Festival

The world-famous Half Moon Bay Art & Pumpkin Festival is the autumn's signature event, drawing hordes of visitors to the "World Pumpkin Capital" for an epic festival on historic Main Street. Massive, mind-boggling, Volkswagen-sized weigh-off champion pumpkins are annually on display. Be patient trying to get there, as Highway 92 and Hiway 1 will be jammed. Guaranteed •

AN UNEXPECTED WINE PAIRING

SAN MATEO COUNTY AND THE

SILICON VALLEY'S WINE COUNTRY

Destination weddings are certainly gaining in popularity, and why not? It's the perfect opportunity to combine a love for travel and new experiences with your wedding day. Plus, it's a great way to cull through the guest list a bit for those who prefer a more intimate affair. And, if you love the beauty of California's wine country, you may want to consider a wine pairing – in a whole new way!

Of course, you can offer wine pairings at your reception – but this pairing list is all about where to have your destination wedding. No matter your reasons for wanting a wedding in a different locale, California's San Mateo County and Silicon Valley area has the perfect place for you to do so by including one of these wineries in your nuptial plans.

LOS GATOS TESTAROSSA WINERY & HOTEL LOS GATOS

When you hear "Silicon Valley" thoughts may turn to technology, yet tucked away in the southern tip is the quaint town of Los Gatos, a thriving area filled with locally owned boutiques, fabulous restaurants, and the lovely Hotel Los Gatos. Seemingly straight out Tuscany, this location boasts spacious rooms and many amenities.

Up the hill from the hotel is Testarossa Winery, which offers wine caves for hosting your guests for a tasting, wedding and/or reception. The night before your wedding, guests can dine on cuisine inspired by Greece and the Mediterranean at Dio Deka, which is located at Hotel Los Gatos.

Sustentabilidad al plato

En la región estadounidense de Silicon Valley, el acelerado avance tecnológico contrasta con las propuestas gastronómicas que están cada vez más en sintonía con la naturaleza. Los lugareños exaltan lo que ofrecen el campo y el mar a través de una cocina franca y respetuosa con el medio ambiente, cuenta Mariana Vega

FOTOS: CHARLY RAMOS

En los años 70, el silicio fue utilizado para producir en masa los chips de los microprocesadores computacionales. El boom comenzó en el condado de San Mateo, California, donde se establecieron cada vez más compañías dedicadas a este giro. Con el paso del tiempo, la fiebre por la tecnología se contagió a los alrededores, y la región se ganó el nombre de Silicon Valley. Abarcando más de 25 ciudades y pueblos, el hogar de algunas de las marcas de software más importantes del mundo es también un paraíso de sabores locales, ya que en muchos restaurantes ofrecen preparaciones donde la sustentabilidad es el ingrediente principal. Estoy ansiosa de recorrerlo y descubrir la cara poco conocida de este valle.

La travesía comienza al partir de San Francisco hacia el sur. A medida que la ciudad se queda atrás, la carretera regala extraordinarias postales en las que la naturaleza es protagonista. Mi destino es Half Moon Bay, donde llego a la hora de la cena. El sitio elegido es uno de los restaurantes populares de la localidad, y eso es siempre un buen indicio. Justo en el corazón del pueblo se ubica Pasta Moon. Ahí, desde hace 33 años, la chef Kimberly Levin realiza exquisitos platillos con ingredientes orgánicos y de temporada provenientes de 15 diferentes granjas de California. La frescura de los productos locales expresa su esplendor en la ensalada de durazno y los ejotes tempura.

Originaria de Iowa, Kimberly vivió en una granja durante su juventud. "Crecí con el estilo de vida farm-to-table, pues desde muy pequeña aprendí, al lado de mi abuela, a cultivar y a criar mis alimentos", recuerda. Su amor por la pasta —que elabora a mano todos los días— llegó después, cuando se fue a vivir un tiempo a Italia con la familia de un amigo. Desde entonces, ha regresado numerosas veces al país europeo, cuyos sabores ha logrado capturar en sus platillos. Entre las recetas tradicionales que ostenta el menú, se encuentra la lasaña (que prepara con salchicha siciliana hecha en casa y quesos ricotta y parmesano), el tagliatelle a la boloñesa y el espagueti a la putanesca.

Cerca de Half Moon Bay se encuentra Pillar Point Harbor, y por la mañana es el mejor momento para visitarlo. Este puerto alberga cerca de 200 botes pesqueros y, a pesar del frío, me aventuro a hacer kayak. Las aguas son calmas y en el muelle se pueden divisar algunos pelícanos.

Al llegar a tierra, solo puedo pensar en una cosa: clam chowder. Y es que esta reconfortante sopa es muy apreciada en esta parte de la costa californiana. No hace falta caminar mucho antes de llegar a Sam's Chowder House, donde se prepara este clásico en dos de sus versiones más famosas: Nueva Inglaterra y Manhattan. Ambas se elaboran con almejas, pero la primera consta de salsa bechamel, mientras que la segunda se realiza con jitomate.

La recomendación es instalarse en la terraza, pues desde allí se aprecia el panorama marítimo que ofrecen las embarcaciones en el puerto. Este restaurante cuenta con la certificación As Fresh As It Gets, que garantiza que los ingredientes utilizados son frescos y producidos localmente. Para comprobarlo, basta probar el lobster roll, un sándwich de langosta aderezado con mantequilla; la ensalada de sandía con cangrejo o el cioppino, un suculento estofado de mariscos.

Luego del almuerzo, sigo la línea costera en dirección a Pescadero, un pueblo granjero ubicado a menos de 30 minutos. Resulta inevitable detenerse a un lado del camino para admirar brevemente el Pigeon Point Lighthouse, uno de los últimos faros de California que aún permanecen en pie. Aunque ya no se utiliza para guiar a los marineros, esta construcción que data de 1872 se ha convertido en un bellísimo mirador al Pacífico, y desde los acantilados sobre los que se alza, se reúnen a pasar la tarde algunos pescadores aficionados.

Al llegar a Pescadero, la prevaleciente arquitectura rústica decimonónica, combinada con amplios espacios abiertos rodeados de verdes montañas, crea un paisaje que atrapa la mirada. Toco la puerta en Harley Farms, una granja de más de 100 años de antigüedad.

Aquí se producen 45 tipos diferentes de queso orgánico. La leche se obtiene del centenar de cabras que habitan en libre pastoreo. Los visitantes pueden acercarse y acariciarlas o dirigirse a la pequeña tienda, en la que se ofrecen, además de quesos de cabra, diversos productos artesanales como aceites con especias, jaleas e incluso jabones.

En la parte superior del lugar se encuentra un pequeño recinto con una mesa larga de madera y algunas sillas talladas a mano, donde se llevan a cabo cenas privadas dos veces al mes. Éstas constan de cuatro tiempos, elaborados solo con productos orgánicos. Para asistir, se debe adquirir la entrada con anticipación, pues tienen una gran demanda.

Después de recorrer el pintoresco centro de este pueblo, regreso a Half Moon Bay para merendar en el embrujado Moss Beach Distillery. Según cuenta la leyenda, durante la época de la prohibición, cuando el restaurante era un bar clandestino, una mujer casada se enamoró del pianista que amenizaba las noches, y cuando el marido de ésta se enteró de la infidelidad, fue a buscarla. Nadie sabe lo que sucedió, pero al día siguiente, ella apareció muerta sobre la playa. Se dice que su espíritu merodea los alrededores, donde se le conoce como Blue Lady.

Apenas cruzo la puerta de entrada al restaurante, percibo una atmósfera extraña, pero todo pasa a segundo plano cuando me deleito con la vista al mar. La propuesta gastronómica de Moss Beach Distillery es perfecta para una tarde relajada con amigos, entre platillos desenfadados en porciones para compartir y cocteles refrescantes. Pido coast siders (una orden de tres minihamburguesas de mariscos servidas con papas a la francesa), linguini di mare y de postre el pudín de pan. Y mientras observo el atardecer a través de los ventanales, saboreo el coctel de vodka, triple sec y curaçao, que rinde homenaje al amigable fantasma porque lleva su nombre.

Antes de dejar atrás este pueblo —famoso por su festival anual de arte y calabazas—, comienzo el día haciendo una parada en Half Moon Bay Art Glass. Allí Douglass Brown, un carismático artesano, enseña a fabricar toda clase de piezas de vidrio soplado. Elijo entre los más de dos mil colores que tiene disponibles, y me dispongo a crear un florero, una de las piezas más sencillas de su catálogo de esculturas policromáticas y figuras complejas. Es indispensable colocarse guantes especiales y seguir las indicaciones de seguridad, pero el proceso es relajante y divertido.

Al terminar mi obra de arte, me dirijo en busca de una copa de vino a La Nebbia Winery, que se encuentra a un costado. La propietaria de este tasting room, Kendyl Kellogg, abandonó el mundo corporativo para seguir su pasión: la vinicultura. A pesar de que California es reconocido por sus vinos, no todas las regiones cuentan con el terroir necesario para que las uvas desarrollos todo su potencial. Half Moon Bay es una de éstas; sin embargo, los lugareños han optado por establecer bodegas donde producen caldos a partir de uvas recolectadas en otras zonas.

En La Nebbia Winery se usan variedades como zinfandel, cabernet sauvignon y chardonnay provenientes de Áreas Vitícolas Americanas (AVAs, por sus siglas en inglés) de California.

San Francisco Airport Marriott Waterfront Es uno de los centros de convenciones más grandes de Silicon Valley. Entre ellas, Napa Valley, Santa Ynez Valley, Mendocino County o Monterey County. En esta vinícola se producen todo tipo de vinos, desde tintos hasta fortificados.

Disfruto un espumoso blanco y frutal mientras Kendyl me muestra la propiedad, que cuenta con un patio trasero para realizar pícnic, jugar al aire libre y degustar vino, por supuesto. Según me platica, además de degustaciones, se llevan a cabo eventos Barrel to Bottle, donde el público puede acudir a llenar su propia botella con las producciones de la bodega.

Para conocer más sobre el vino de Silicon Valley, llevo a la ciudad de San Carlos. El Sol brilla con intensidad y nada queda de la neblina de la Costa Este. Aquí se ha instalado una decena de vinícolas que ofrecen a los visitantes diversas experiencias enológicas y gastronómicas; una de ellas es Domenico.

Esta bodega se caracteriza por la fusión de la tradición vinícola californiana y la italiana. Se localiza en una antigua imprenta que fue totalmente transformada para ofrecer una experiencia completa y placentera a los viajeros.

El lugar cuenta con un salón de eventos y un tasting room decorado con mármol blanco y negro, "inspirado en los años 50", de acuerdo con lo que me cuenta Nick Chirichillo, quien lleva los negocios de la marca. "Este espacio está dedicado al público; aquí ofrecemos degustación de vinos y snacks, como paninis, pizza o ensaladas para acompañar". En la parte posterior de la propiedad se producen más de 20 etiquetas a partir de varietales típicos italianos como primitivo, sangiovese, nebbiolo y nero d'Avola; cultivados en Amador County, California.

Redwood City se encuentra suficientemente cerca de San Carlos para llegar antes de la cena. Me dirijo a La Viga Seafood & Cocina Mexicana, un restaurante cuya fachada ostenta un mural de la estación del metro del mismo nombre en Ciudad de México. El chef Manuel Martínez ha llevado recetas tradicionales mexicanas —como los camarones al coco y el pescado zarandeado— a los comensales estadounidenses en este espacio "chiquito y curioso", como él mismo lo define. Comprometido con el uso de productos que no generen un impacto negativo en el medio ambiente, asegura usar solo mariscos capturados de manera sustentable. Su carrera, como la de muchos mexicanos que emigran al país del norte, ha estado marcada por el esfuerzo y la perseverancia. "Llegué a San Francisco hace 23 años, aprendí inglés y fui ganando oportunidades en diversas cocinas. Así adquirí experiencia", narra el chef mexiquense.

A una calles de distancia se encuentra LV Mar, otro de sus restaurantes, al que llegamos caminando. El concepto sigue el hilo conductor de la comida mexicana con una reinterpretación —que se expresa en platillos como el ceviche, las tlayudas y la carne asada— acompañada de coctelería y un ambiente casual. Mientras anochece, se antoja un postre, y la mousse de framboesa con chocolate del chef Martínez es ideal para endulzar el paladar.

La ruta al sur nos lleva al último punto del recorrido por Silicon Valley: Palo Alto. Hogar de la Universidad de Stanford, esta ciudad es también conocida por albergar las sedes de compañías como Facebook, Apple y Google. Aunque no está permitida la entrada a ninguna de ellas, muchos turistas visitan el lugar solo para tomarse una selfie al lado de los letreros gigantes que se localizan en las entradas de los edificios.

El uso de la tecnología se puede apreciar por doquier: desde cargadores eléctricos para autos Tesla, ubicados en los estacionamientos, hasta numerosas bicicletas de la marca LimeBike, que los ciclistas alquilan por medio de una app. Luego de pasear entre las amplias calles de los suburbios, llego a The Sea by Alexander's Steakhouse, un elegante restaurante donde los frutos del mar se fusionan con técnicas contemporáneas y guiños a la gastronomía oriental.

La cocina es abierta y a cargo se encuentra el chef Yu Min Lin, quien perfeccionó sus habilidades culinarias en diversas provincias asiáticas como Taipéi, Tokio y Shanghái. Con ingredientes de temporada producidos en Palo Alto y que él selecciona personalmente, ofrece platillos donde deja de manifesto su espíritu creativo, a través de presentaciones espectaculares y combinaciones de sabor inusitadas. El lugar solo abre a la hora de la cena, pero bien vale esperar a que llegue la media tarde para probar delicias como los shots de hamachi: refrescantes entradas frías a base de este pescado, mezclado con aguacate, toques de jengibre, salsa ponzu y semillas de ajonjolí; o las rocas de langosta, un plato con suaves trozos de crustáceo cubiertos con una crujiente capa de tinta de calamar, sobre puré de almendra y aliñados con salsa de trufa negra.

Claro que para degustar al máximo la experiencia culinaria de The Sea by Alexander's Steakhouse, ordenar el menú maridaje de siete tiempos es una gran idea, si se llega antes de las 20:30 horas. La carta de vinos que ofrece acompañamiento a los magníficos platillos cuenta con etiquetas de todo el mundo, aunque la mayor parte proviene de viñedos californianos.

La sommelier del lugar me recomienda una copa de cabernet sauvignon de las montañas de Santa Cruz. Me detengo un momento a disfrutar el primer sorbo y el final de mi aventura, que no me ha dejado dudas: a medida que la tecnología se desarrolla cada vez más a prisa, se vuelve indispensable voltear hacia la naturaleza y valorar lo que nos regala. Silicon Valley es el mejor ejemplo de lo que ese equilibrio puede lograr. □

Depuis toujours, San Francisco occupe une place à part dans la société américaine. Aujourd'hui ville sanctuaire, la cité californienne assure protection aux migrants sans papiers, comme elle accueillit, dans les années 1850, les émigrants de la ruée vers l'or venus en nombre par la porte dorée (Golden Gate), laquelle donna son nom au pont qui vit le jour en 1937, après quatre années de construction. Du mouvement Black Panther au Summer of love de 1967 qui donna naissance au Flower Power, The city by the bay fut de tous les combats avant-gardistes et contestataires. Aujourd'hui, San Francisco déploie des trésors d'imagination dans la lutte contre le changement climatique, en opérant notamment une forte mutation écologique. Une volonté de changement palpable, relayée et amplifiée par les nouveaux modes de consommation des employés des grandes entreprises implantées dans la Silicon Valley, au sud de la ville. Et c'est par le sud justement que San Francisco s'offre aux yeux des touristes qui auront choisi de s'offrir un road-trip depuis Los Angeles par exemple, en remontant la célèbre Pacific Coast Highway. L'occasion de découvrir des lieux magiques pour la pratique du golf, comme la baie de Carmel et ses parcours légendaires ; Cypress Point, Spyglass Hill et bien sûr Pebble Beach qui accueillera cet été la 119^e édition de l'US Open.

AU BORD DU PACIFIQUE

Créé en 1973 par Arnold Palmer, c'est un parkland au tracé typiquement américain qui nécessite toutefois d'adapter de bonnes stratégies, notamment au moment de choisir la position de sa balle sur des greens redoutables. Comme pour l'Ocean Course, le finish est spectaculaire avec le fairway du 18, un par 4 de 351 mètres, positionné au bord du Pacifique et un green lové au pied du Ritz-Carlton. « Nous avons mis en place une offre tarifaire qui permet de jouer un deuxième parcours (Old ou Océan) dans la journée pour 66 € de plus », confie Bill Murray, manager général des lieux. Avec une pause savoureuse au Mullins Bar & Grill entre les deux parcours, on n'est pas loin de la journée parfaite ! C'œuvre d'Arnold Palmer, l'Old Course est un parkland de 6 044 mètres. Malheureusement, en décembre, lors de notre passage à HMB, le Old Course était impraticable en raison des fortes pluies. Les golfeurs du jour étaient donc invités à jouer l'Ocean Course, par 72 de 5 916 mètres signé Arthur Hills, ce qui fut loin d'être une punition !

L'Ocean Course porte bien son nom au premier trou, avec le green de ce long par 4 posé au bord du Pacifique. Il faut ensuite patienter jusqu'au 12 pour revoir l'océan et en prendre plein les yeux. Les deux trous du finish sont spectaculaires. Le par 3 du 17 (136 m), dont le petit green semble posé en équilibre sur le bord de la falaise balayée par un vent latéral de gauche à droite, nécessite un coup bas, légèrement en draw. Mais attention, car un slice vous éloigne du précipice, un hook ne vous donnera pas le sourire ! Quant au par 5 du 18, long de 481 m, il longe la falaise et permet aux promeneurs qui partagent le même chemin que les voitures, de voir les golfeurs en action. L'arrivée se fait au pied de l'imposant Ritz Carlton, comme le 18 de l'Old Course.

« Le TPC Harding Park accueillera l'USPGA en 2020. Pour l'occasion, les fairways seront deux fois plus étroits ! »

TAILLÉ POUR LES GRANDS CHAMPIONNATS

Badgé TPC pour « Tournament Players Club », Harding Park est un bijou qui déploie ses immenses fairways sur les rives du lac Merced, dont il partage la quiétude avec The Olympic. Situé dans un parc public où l'on vient flâner, jogger, promener ses chiens ou faire du canoë, Harding Park respire le golf. Ici, tout a été bien pensé sur ce site d'exception qui fut jadis une ferme où l'on cultivait la laitue, grâce à l'irrigation en eau douce fournie par le lac Merced. Une large zone d'entraînement, comprenant un practice doté d'une vingtaine de postes, ainsi qu'une zone de chipping et de putting, accueille les golfeurs. Un second putting-green, situé juste à côté du départ du 1, permet de se familiariser une dernière fois avec l'exceptionnelle roue des greens. Surprise divine dans un pays où la voiturette est au golfeur ce que L'arrivée des deux parcours de Half Moon Bay se fait au pied de l'imposant hôtel Ritz Carlton.

Par 3 de 118 mètres, le trou n°4 du Presidio Golf Course (ci-dessus) est petit par la taille, mais demande une grande technicité afin d'appréhender correctement le green à fort dévers. Un peu plus loin (ci-dessous), le tracé serpente au milieu d'arbres plus que centenaires qui laissent filtrer de belles vues sur les collines de San Francisco.

Le parcours du TPC Harding Park est un bijou qui déploie ses immenses fairways sur les rives du lac Merced. Pour le championnat PGA 2020, il offrira aux pros qui viendront le défier un visage différent, bien plus sélectif encore.

la basket est au joueur, il est possible de jouer le TPC Harding Park à pied ! Et pour un golf de ce calibre, ça change tout. Vu la topographie très plate, le parcours se fait sans réel effort, si ce n'est la concentration inhérente à ce type de tracé très sélectif. Avec ses 6 259 mètres des boules bleues (l'équivalent des blanches chez nous), il ne faut pas chômer pour en venir à bout ! L'appellation TPC se mérite et la qualité est au rendez-vous. Départs taillés au cordeau, larges fairways de très grande qualité à tonte croisée, roughs savamment entretenus, bunkers immaculés et greens à la roule parfaite. Harding Park affiche la même qualité que le Golf National durant la Ryder Cup, c'est tout dire ! Et en 2020, il offrira aux golfeurs qui viendront le défier un visage différent, bien plus sélectif encore. « Nous travaillons sans relâche pour que la qualité du parcours reste la même, c'est une obligation en tant que TPC, explique Tom Smith. Pour l'USPGA 2020, on divisera la largeur des fairways par deux. Les roughs seront durs et densifiés et les greens auront une roule bien supérieure. C'est un travail que nous avons déjà mis en place et qui va s'intensifier en 2019. » Chaque année, TPC Harding Park accueille environ 90 000 golfeurs, dont 65 % sont des résidents de San Francisco, 25 % des joueurs américains et 10 % des golfeurs étrangers.

DANS LES PAS DE ROOSEVELT ET PALMER

Si Harding Park est situé au sud de la ville, le Presidio Golf Course est lui positionné tout au nord, tout près du Golden Gate Bridge. Pour autant, on ne voit jamais le célèbre pont orange depuis le parcours, mais seulement des vues partielles sur quelquesunes des cinquante collines qui ceignent San Francisco, comme Russian Hill ou Nob Hill. Construit en 1895, le Presidio fut d'abord un 9 trous réservé aux officiers de l'armée cantonnés dans le fort militaire et aux membres du club privé éponyme qui compte encore aujourd'hui plus de 800 personnes. En 1906, le golf servit de base de repli aux survivants du tremblement de terre qui fit quelque 3 000 morts. Étendu à 18 trous en 1910, le parcours a été redessiné, allongé et doté d'un système d'arrosage automatique en 1921. « Les présidents Théodore Roosevelt et Dwight D. Eisenhower mais aussi les joueurs de baseball Joe Di Maggio et Babe Ruth ou encore Arnold Palmer étaient des fans inconditionnels du parcours », précise Don Chelemedos, manager général du Presidio. Avant d'ajouter : « Chaque année, 63 000 golfeurs viennent jouer ici ». Contrairement à Harding Park, Presidio n'est pas taillé pour les compétitions internationales. Avec ses 5 926 mètres des back-tees, il aurait bien du mal à se défendre face aux canonniers du PGA Tour. Le plus long des quatre par 5 de ce par 72 fait 480 mètres, donc touchable en deux par de bons amateurs. Les difficultés sont pourtant bien présentes sur ce parcours plus que centenaire, comme ces bunkers sauvages et profonds qui nécessitent toucher délicat et précision. Dompter les greens au grain très prononcé et à la roule rapide est l'autre grande difficulté du Presidio dont l'attrait principal reste la richesse de son passé. Savoir que des personnages historiques et des légendes du sport ont rencontré les mêmes difficultés à l'attaque d'un green ou sauté de joie pour un même birdie, ça donne une toute autre dimension à votre partie. Et des souvenirs inoubliables... • ou want a vacation spot with Pacific beaches, wine tasting, San Francisco Bay views, amazing dining, cultural activities, great golf, endless recreational activities, microbreweries and cool selfie spots. You'll find it all in one spot: San Mateo County/Silicon Valley.

« Dompter les greens au grain très prononcé et à la roule rapide est l'autre grande difficulté du Presidio. »

San Mateo County Silicon Valley

When you land on the San Francisco Bayside, you can head for a selfie in front of the iconic Facebook sign or Hewlett Packard garage. Or you might start your trip with a wine class at the top notch San Francisco Wine School in South San Francisco. (You can follow a class with a visit to Armstrong Brewery downstairs.)

Once you're feeling smarter, try an urban wine tour in the city of San Carlos. Walk from Domenico Winery to Cuvee Winery to Russian Ridge to Flying Suitcase to Old County Cellars, getting your tasting on! Consider heading to Noelani's for Hawaiian food (and music), and then walk up the street to Savanna Jazz to catch a show.

Still on the hunt for food and wine? Grab a ride or hop on Caltrain to Redwood City, where you'll find endless sidewalk cafes. Upscale restaurants abound, such as Donato Enoteca, LV Mar and La Viga. Want nightlife? Enjoy dinner and a show at Angelica's or catch a musical at the Fox Theatre. Feeling more casual? Head over to Gourmet Haus Staudt, a German beer garden and site of the legendary lost Apple Iphone prototype. And speaking of beer, locals love Freewheel Brewing Company in Redwood City.

As your itinerary progresses, you may opt to head south to Palo Alto for a gourmet meal at The Sea by Alexander' Steak House or the historic MacArthur Park , or to A. Space Gallery in Menlo Park for some art appreciation. Make sure to hit the free Cantor Arts Center, home to the world's second largest Rodin exhibit.

Another option is to head north to the City of San Mateo, where restaurants and outdoor dining establishments are in abundance. Enjoy a high end dinner at Porterhouse Restaurant with dry-aged steaks, seafood at Pacific Catch or an eclectic menu at the Zagat-rated Pausa. Want seafood overlooking a scenic lagoon? Opt for the Fish Market.

For culture, stop at Filoli Mansion and Gardens, a National Historic Landmark. Filoli has been used in multiple TV shows and movies, including Dynasty, Nash Bridges, The Wedding Planner, Heaven Can Wait, and Rent. Drive past Crystal Springs Reservoir and head "over the hill", to the Half Moon Bay/Coastside. Make a stop at La Nebbia Winery for a tasting and bocce ball and stop for fantastic local seafood at Flying Fish Grill or a farm-to-table meal at Pasta Moon. (For a pub-style option, try the historic San Benito House.)

On Main Street, stop by Barterra winery for wine tasting and chocolate. And speaking of chocolate, you do not want to miss Sweet 55, a Swiss chocolate confectionery. More options: outdoor dining and music with a view at the Half Moon Bay Brewing Company or Sam's Chowder House or exquisite Peruvian food right on the water at La Costanera. Another not-to-be-missed spot is Moss Beach Distillery, complete with a resident ghost.

You'll want to definitely hike Devil's Slide in Pacifica, a spectacular paved hike along the cliff overlooking the Pacific. Feeling ambitious? Try the Portola Discovery Hike, celebrating the discovery of San Francisco Bay 250 years ago. Fun stops in Pacifica include A Grape in the Fog wine bar, the iconic Nick's Seafood Restaurant and Pedro Point Brewing Company. Nick's and A Grape in the Fog feature regular entertainment.
